

THE PARLIAMENTARY SHOW

The last days of the U. F. A. reign in the Alberta Legislature are like a Dumbarton Fair with one of the politicians assailing a witness who appeared on behalf of the press, and the other being removed from the gallery of the House and being prohibited from further entry for calling Mr. O. L. McPherson a liar during the ex-minister's speech.

Much to the surprise of all parties was across, the Legislature did not prorogue last Thursday night as expected. Far too many issues of vital effect in the coming general election, it was felt, were left to be decided.

Despite the anxiety of farmers, business and others to get back to their homes and businesses, the House adjourned to Saturday and will probably sit all of Easter week.

With tempers frayed and nerves on edge the members laid aside the business of three important matters. First is the brace of bills designed to nullify the grant of Alberta. The penalties are enormous. Fines are provided of $500 if the paper is owned by a company, and of $1000 against an individual owner, publisher and editor. If any question is raised, the case in a divorce or matrimonial suit or of any proceeding before a judge in chambers. Nothing but a scandal of a lawsuit is to be allowed. Coming at the close of the session it led to vigorous protests from opposition members, backed by the daily papers, the weekly newspaper association and seven hundred newsmen, all of whom will be affected by the bills.

After two days of protests, the Alberta general weakened. He offered to modify the bills so as to permit reports of the final judgments of the action to set aside on grounds of alleged fraud, the divorce obtained by the former Hon. O. L. McPherson, and in regard to the damage action for seduction of a government stenographer brought against former Premier J. E. Brown.

So heated were the feelings that in a discussion over an affidavit made by the former Hon. O. L. McPherson, assembled Chas. E. Campbell, publisher of the Edmonton Bulletin under the Legislative Council. The blow which took Mr. Campbell unawares was not serious but the publisher was knocked out by his head striking the marble stairway.

Mr. McPherson later made a verbal attack on Mayor Joe E. Clarke of Edmonton in the House. When Mayor Clarke called out for police, the gallery to the ex-minister, "You're a liar and you know it" he was requested to leave. The Speaker later gave orders that the Edmonton Bulletin be not allowed in the Chamber again during the present legislative session. The press fight was still raging when Good Friday adjournment was reached.

Second issue is the question of the bill brought in by the public education leader to allow university professors to run for the Legislature or for Parliament without risk of dismissal. In the course of the debate, it was divulged that Premier Reid and Ex-Premier Brown had gone to the University Senate with a proposal that the ban against running for office be suspended for one year, to permit Prof. W. H. Alexander to run in Edmonton, and thereafter be lavished again at all others.

This led to heated accusations that the premier and ex-premier are using their university for political purposes. The fight was not over when the Legislature adjourned for Good Friday.

Third issue is the question of Social Credit. When the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. W. H. Rowan, Liberal leader, in approving the invitation, charged the Government with bad faith. He says are inviting Major Douglas to come here, he said, on the excuse that you want to know more about Social Credit before deciding what action to take on it, while all the time you are making speeches in the House, over the radio and before public gatherings denouncing Social Credit as a menace to the country.

Mr. Rowan charged that the government is taking $1000 of the public's money, not to get information about Social Credit, but to try and confuse the public during election time. He said it was no wonder that Mr. Alexander had refused the government's invitation to come to Edmonton and tell them about Social Credit, while members of the government are denouncing ridiculing Social Credit in the latterst terms.

According to rumors around the House, a visit to have been arrived at between the government, the Conservatives and the Labor group to form a united front to try to win the Social Credit issue in the coming campaign. The Labor group has all along acted the part of a tail to the Government dog, while the Conservatives, leader of the Conservative party and H. C. Farthing, K. C. his chief lieutenant have both given radio addresses severely opposing Social Credit. The government undoubtedly would prefer to get away from any discussion of its record, or of the conduct of its ministers and ex-ministers and make Social Credit the issue instead.

Just before adjournment on Thursday night, the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. W. H. Rowan, brought in a resolution advocating that the government do as other provincial governments have done, sell all the automobiles purchased for the use of the ministers. He said these are being used for private purposes and for political trips.

It is expected that a bitter discussion will result.

TO FLY PITCHBLEND

FROM GREAT BAY LAKE

Twenty tons of pitchblende concentrate, worth $200,000 are to be flown from Eldorado Mining Company claims on Great Bay Lake to the railroad at Waterways before the spring break up in mid April. It was revealed Friday by W. Leigh Brinsell, well known airman. The shipments form part of the $2,000,000 worth of radium ore scheduled for movement this summer as the Eldorado Company speeds production of radium to meet standing orders at its Port Hope, Ont. refinery.

Greater care is required in moving evergreens than with ordinary trees. The reason is that the sap is resinous and if the roots are allowed to dry out for even an instant the tree will die. By far the safest plan is to lift a ball of moist soil with the roots which should not be disturbed in planting. When once established the evergreens will stand more drought and adverse winter conditions than other trees commonly grown. They require much less water than deciduous trees such as cottonwoods or even elms and green ash.

Beauties With Their Beasts

Just another beauty and her beast picture, but the beasts are overhauled by the beauties in this display of feminine and pachydermic pulchritude. The girls hail from three nations, Canada, the United States and Great Britain, and the handsome elephants were acquired by them during a visit to Ceylon. They are bringing them home in their baggage—pardon us, trucks, but that won't be until their world-cruise in the Canadian Pacific's elite liner Empress of Britain in May. The picture was taken on the boat-deck of the Empress of Britain at Colombo.

TEAM PLAY

It is all very well if you play a lone hand. When the game is a game of your own; Where there isn't a prize, and the score doesn't count. And your errors will never be known. But the big games of life where the victory lay. And where winners are sure of their share. Are not easily won by the man who's alone. By the fellow who plays solitary.

101:1

It is all very well if you climb by yourself. On the ladder of riches and fame; When you win by your strength and your staunchness of will. The rewards that you rightfully claim But the fellow who gets there the quickest, you'll find, And you pick the top rung for his foot. Is the fellow who climbs with the aid of his friends. When his neighbors to help him and boost.

THOSE 65 MEMBERS

101:1

Recently a surprise vote called in the House at Edmonton nearly defeated the Government and disclosed the fact that nineteen members were absent. It is true the odd member may have work to do for his constituency around Parliament's offices during the session but to have a third of the House off sky larking during the discussion on an important question should give all voters reason for serious thought in picking their men for next term.

THE POPULAR GLADIOLUS

The gladiolus is deservedly one of the most popular flowers in Canada. Also it needs very little care except at planting and digging time. About the middle of May is a good time for planting but, as pointed out by the Horticultural Division, Dominion Experimental Farms the exact date varies according to locality because the frost must be out of the ground and the soil dried. Sandy loam, well fertilized the previous year, is the ideal soil, but gladioli will do well on heavier soils. In a light, poor soil they would probably fail in a hot dry season. After planting, the soil must be cultivated frequently to keep down the weeds and render the surface loose. During very dry weather a thorough soaking with water once a week is very beneficial and it is well to remember that when the time comes for cutting the blooms at least two sets of leaves should be left on the plants, so that the corn-airies can to full growth and so be in good condition for growing next year. There are hundreds of varieties to choose from, but the Primulina hybrids which are quite distinct in appearance from the large growing varieties are becoming more popular every year. The corns, as obtained from the seedmen, should be planted from four to six inches deep and about three inches apart in a sunny position in the garden.

KOSTERS GRAFTED COLORADO BLUE OR SILVER SPRUCE

Time for planting trees around the house and while there are numerous varieties of trees deserving consideration there is one tree especially that ought to be more widely planted according to a number of leading authorities. This is the Kosters grafted variety of Colorado Blue spruce. Aside from its almost perfect symmetrical form the Colorado Blue spruce when grown from seed produces a wide variation in color of foliage which varies from a dark blue to light color that gives off a gleam almost like silver, which is carried the year round. It is for this reason that the tree is sometimes called Silver Spruce. Moreover, the Blue or Silver Spruce, like the white and other native varieties, is extremely winter hardy in southern Alberta and very drought resistant.

Greater care is required in moving evergreens than with ordinary trees. The reason is that the sap is resinous and if the roots are allowed to dry out for even an instant the tree will die. By far the safest plan is to lift a ball of moist soil with the roots which should not be disturbed in planting. When once established the evergreens will stand more drought and adverse winter conditions than other trees commonly grown. They require much less water than deciduous trees such as cottonwoods or even elms and green ash.

of trout and salmon fingerlings and older fish.

All of the little fish in these big quantities—nearly thirteen tons altogether—came from eggs hatched out at the hatchery itself. That's evidently an establishment which is doing its full share to help in maintaining and increasing the fish stocks of the country. Incidentally, the records of the Fish Culture Branch of the Fisheries Department show that the hatchery has been increasing its production of Spiculated trout eggs very greatly in the past couple of years, averaging 694,000 in 1934 and 1935 as compared with only 2,465,000 eggs in 1932.

POTATOES AS STOCK FEED

101:1

When the true value of potatoes as feed for live stock and poultry is realized, much larger quantities than at present employed will be used. With high prices for stock and poultry feeds and a surplus of potatoes in Eastern Canada, stock raisers near the plentiful supplies of potatoes have a good opportunity to reduce their feed bills by feeding potatoes. Other countries make much use of potatoes as stock feed. In Germany, for instance, only 30 per cent of the total potato crop is used for table purposes, and approximately 40 per cent for stock feeding. On the other hand, in Canada 65 per cent of the crop finds its way to the table and only about 11 per cent for stock feeding. Stock raisers, says the Agricultural Situation and Outlook recently issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Department of Trade and Commerce, would be well advised to inform themselves on the proper methods of feeding potatoes to livestock to ensure the best results. In brief, potatoes are best fed as whole potatoes, or as watered, carbohydrate concentrates. They may be used, therefore, as a substitute for barley and corn, as in the rationing of pigs, in which case it is important to bear in mind that four pounds of potatoes are equal to one pound of cereal meal.

PAPER PRODUCTS

The pulp and paper industry of Canada, which leads the world in its major product, newsprint, also provides the foundation for a number of subsidiary industries within the Dominion. These include the production of fibreboard, paperboard, roofing paper, paper boxes and bags and coated and treated paper of various kinds. Canada is an importer of paper and paper products to a moderate degree, but her pulp and paper industry has almost always been a material increase in activity in the subsidiary industries. Production of newsprint has risen rapidly during 1934, and judging by export returns and employment reports there has also been a material increase in activity in the subsidiary industries. Production returns show a big gain in the output of rigid insulating board, a species of fibreboard, during 1934 and in the same year there have been increases in the exports of pulp and fibreboard, paperboard, book paper, wall paper and wrapping paper.

The increase in the production of rigid insulating board in Canada in 1934 was over 65 per cent as compared with the previous year. The returns are collected by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from three firms specializing in this branch of manufacture. The total production in 1934 was 24,698,000 surface feet as compared with 14,710,000 feet in 1933. The figures represent surface feet in terms of thicknesses reduced to one half inch. Several different varieties of board included in the total. Panel board accounted for 17,014,000 feet in 1934 as against 9,866,000 feet in 1933; plaster base board rose on the same comparison from 2,500,000 to 2,698,000; roof boards from 1,473,000 to 2,095,000 and miscellaneous boards from 2,167,000 to 2,590,000 surface feet.

Reports on several of the other subsidiary paper industries for 1933 have recently been issued by the official statistics. Its largest of these is that engaged in the manufacture of paper boxes and bags, which in that year had a gross production value of $17,860,000. There were 132 plants engaged in this industry and the capital investment was $20,111,000. In 1932 the number of plants had been 126 and the output value $17,084,000. A dozen plants were engaged in the manufacture of roofing paper in 1933, the capital investment was $3,250,000 and the gross value of production $5,056,000. In 1932 the number of plants had been eleven and the output value

$3,877,000. In what is known as the miscellaneous paper goods industry 100 plants were operating in 1933, the capital was $15,545,000 and the output value $13,705,000. In 1932 there had been 94 plants and the production value was $13,015,000. This last named industry comprises all establishments engaged wholly or chiefly in coating, treating, cutting or otherwise transforming paper and paperboard for special purposes, exclusive of paper boxes and bags and roofing paper. Its products embrace a wide variety of goods, including blue print paper, envelopes, filing folders, foolscap, paper napkins, pads and tablets, dress patterns, typewriter paper, labels, tags, and a large number of other descriptions of paper products.

The group of Canadian industries based on her forest resources has exhibited a marked upward trend during the last year. The group ranks second only to agriculture, among the primary industries, in its contribution to economic production in the Dominion. The outstanding industry in the group is newsprint which started its upward movement in May and which has exceeded 1933 in every succeeding month up to December. The production index for the forestry group as a whole averaged about 142 per cent higher in 1933 than in the preceding year. Exports of woodpulp in the 12 months showed a gain of 34.5 per cent over 1932. Exports of plants and boards were 1,017,827,000 feet compared with 674,167,000 in the preceding year. British Columbia during 1933 broke all records for overseas business. Shipments of forest products from B.C. showed an advance of more than 40 per cent over 1932 and exports to Great Britain recorded a gain of more than 100 per cent.

Pulp and paper is the largest branch of the forest group of Canadian industries. It is also the largest single industry in the Dominion, and has retained this position for almost a decade. Even in 1932 it led all industries in gross and net production value and was second only to electric power in capital investment. The pulp and paper industry has been characterized by spectacular growth, which it primarily owes to the close association of immense forest resources and abundant water powers within Canada. The best measure of its progress available for 1933 is newsprint production, which rose in 1933 from 147,760 tons in April to 176,300 tons in December and had touched 194,260 tons in August and 193,720 tons again in November. The growth of newsprint production was stimulated mainly in the exports, and a number of other paper products like wire experienced increased exports.

The chief products of Canada in addition to newsprint are paper boards, wrapping paper, book and writing paper, wall paper and paper boxes and bags. In point of value the leading product is paper boxes and bags with paper boards second and book and writing paper third. All these products figure in the export returns, where paper board leads in value, amounting to $1,262,016 for the year 1933 with pulp and paper wall boards second at $605,716. Exports of book paper in 1933 had a value of $255,882, wrapping paper $141,311, wallpaper $95,428, roofing paper $79,892 and boxes and bags of paper $59,596. In December there were increased exports over the same month of 1932 in book paper, wallpaper, boxes and bags and roofing paper. Total exports of paper and paper products, including newsprint, in December last were valued at $6,712,893 against $5,852,205 in December, 1932.

WEEKLY LETTER Lethbridge Experimental Station

Crop Testing Plan for Determining Purity of Farmers' Wheat Seed.

The crop testing plan inaugurated in 1931 has since become widely recognized by grain men and farmers generally as an exceedingly simple and effective means of determining purity of seed varieties used by individual farmers. With wheat particularly a high standard of quality is vitally essential in selling on the overseas market. While soil and climate play an important part in determining quality, the varieties grown, and their purity or freedom from undesirable types are also of the utmost importance. For this week's letter W. D. Hay, Assistant Supt. in cereals at this station, has outlined this crop testing plan which is being continued here this year.

Four ounce samples of wheat are used. These are collected and sent in by elevator agents and by individual farmers. The samples are grown separately in small test plots and designated by number only to avoid disclosing the names of the farmers from whom the samples are received. Just previous to ripening a field day, is when each plot is examined to determine its purity of variety and farmers are given opportunity to inspect the plots, to see the wheat grown from their own seed sample if they wish and to learn how to identify different varieties.

At the same time each plot is classified according to its purity of variety. The various classes are designated as A, B and C. Plots classified as A are considered pure as to variety and the fields which they represent should provide good seed. Plots classified as B contain several impurities of varieties and farmers whose seed falls into this class are advised to take steps to provide themselves with better seed in the course of a year or two. Class C represents stock that is so badly mixed that it should not be used for seed.

This year several grain companies are cooperating by sending samples and over a thousand different lots will be grown at the Lethbridge Station alone. In addition it is the wish to obtain samples from as many individual farmers as possible and particularly those in close proximity to the station. Any who wish to have their wheat seed tested for purity of variety are asked to send in a four ounce sample within the next few days if possible. Postage is required and samples should be addressed to the Experimental Station, Lethbridge. As many of the samples will be tested as time and plot space permit.

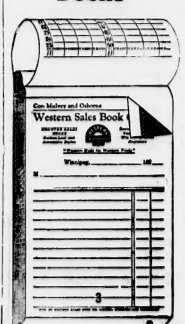

The value of the information to be can scarcely be overestimated both to individual farmers and the Canadian wheat growers generally. A number of new varieties have been introduced during the past fifteen years. Most of these have been quite satisfactory when grown under conditions for which they have been adapted, and where purity of variety has been maintained. However in too many instances mixing of varieties has taken place endangering the high reputation of Canadian wheat. The crop testing plan outlined above offers a feasible means of overcoming this danger and farmers generally are urged to cooperate in carrying it out.
